

Group Novel Project

For this project you will read a novel with a small group. On Friday, May 14, your group will do a presentation on your book answering the question

“What types of circumstances encourage people to change?”

Your 5-10 minute presentation must include:

Each group member
Something pink
Something recycled

Music
One knock-knock joke
An allusion to another book

In addition, you should explain your book’s plot in less than thirty seconds and connect your answer to the question above to other pieces of literature we will read in the next few weeks.

Here’s the reading schedule for these books:

April 26	Class reading time	May 5	Group meeting over pages _____
April 27	Group meeting over pages _____	May 7	Class reading time
April 28	Class reading time	May 10	Group meeting over pages _____
April 29	Group meeting over pages _____	May 12	Group meeting
May 3	Class reading time	May 14	Group presentation

My group members:

Our novel:

Group Novel Project

For this project you will read a novel with a small group. On Friday, May 14, your group will do a presentation on your book answering the question

“What types of circumstances encourage people to change?”

Your 5-10 minute presentation must include:

Each group member
Something pink
Something recycled

Music
One knock-knock joke
An allusion to another book

In addition, you should explain your book’s plot in less than thirty seconds and connect your answer to the question above to other pieces of literature we will read in the next few weeks.

Here’s the reading schedule for these books:

April 26	Class reading time	May 5	Group meeting over pages _____
April 27	Group meeting over pages _____	May 7	Class reading time
April 28	Class reading time	May 10	Group meeting over pages _____
April 29	Group meeting over pages _____	May 12	Group meeting
May 3	Class reading time	May 14	Group presentation

My group members:

Our novel: